MARKET COMMENTARY

Nedgroup Investments (IOM) Ltd

Anyone hoping for a quiet end to the year had their hopes dashed in spectacular fashion as volatility exploded in the latter stages of December, and safe havens materially outperformed riskier assets. One catalyst for this turn of events was the partial US government shut down caused by a stand-off between Trump and the US Senate over funding for his beloved southern border wall. Other factors that weighed on markets included clearer signs of slowing global economic growth and Trump's increasingly erratic behaviour, which was exemplified by his sudden announcement of the withdrawal of US troops from Syria. This led to the protest resignation of US Defense Secretary Mattis, who was said by many to be the last "grown-up" left in the Trump administration. Without restraining influences, and faced with a Democratic majority in the Senate, it remains to be seen how Trump reacts in 2019. The market impact of these negative events was amplified as they corresponded precisely with the Christmas lull in market liquidity.

It was a pretty grim month for global equities, which fell -7.0% when measured using the MSCI AC World Index in sterling terms. All markets were under pressure, but the most resilient were Asia ex Japan (-2.6%), Global Emerging Markets (-2.6%) and the UK (-3.7%), whilst the US (-9.0%) was the biggest faller. At the sector level, stable earners tended to outperform cyclicals, with Utilities (-1.9%), Communication Services (-5.9%) and Consumer Staples (-6.0%) beating the market, whilst Energy (-8.9%), Industrials (-7.9%), Financials (-7.9%) and Information Technology (-7.6%) underperformed. Viewed from a style perspective, there was little to choose between Value (-7.1%) and Growth (-6.9%), whilst Larger Companies (-7.0%) held up marginally better than Smaller Companies (-8.4%).

Fixed income markets outperformed equities as investors scrambled for safe havens. Government bonds were the best performers, as credit spreads widened over the period. As such, the JP Morgan Global Government Bond Index rose +1.6%, whilst the shift lower in yields also helped the Merrill Lynch Global Corporate Investment Grade Index gain +1.0%. Results were more mixed in other fixed income sectors, as the Merrill Lynch Global High Yield Index turned in a disappointing -1.4%, whilst the JP Morgan Emerging Market Bond Index delivered +1.5% (all hedged to sterling).

Most commodities were under significant pressure on worries about slowing global growth. This was especially true in the case of oil, where rising inventories were a particular concern. Over the month, the Bloomberg Commodities Index fell -6.8%, with Crude Oil giving up -10.7%, Industrial Metals down -5.1% and Agriculture -2.3%. The only significant sector that bucked the trend was Gold (+4.8%), which reflected its safe haven status.

Whilst currency markets were relatively quiet over the month, they also reflected investors' preference for safe havens, with the Japanese yen and Swiss franc gaining +3.4% and +1.7% respectively against the pound. In other areas, the dollar was flat versus the pound, and the euro advanced by +1.2%. Finally, Emerging Market and commodity related currencies had mixed fortunes against the pound, with weakness in the Australian dollar (-3.8%), Canadian dollar (-2.7%) and South African rand (-3.6%) counterbalanced by strength in the Mexican peso (+3.8%) and Chinese yuan (+1.2%).

PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY

The Nedgroup Investments Balanced MultiFund decreased in value by -3.4% during December.

Within equities, the best performing (or least negative) active funds were TT Emerging Markets Equity (-3.7%), Morgan Stanley Global Brands (-6.3%) and TOBAM Anti-Benchmark World Equity (-6.9%). TT Emerging Markets Equity was helped by its exposure to Emerging Markets, which was one of the more resilient areas in December, whilst Morgan Stanley Global Brands and TOBAM Anti-Benchmark World Equity were aided by their exposure to more defensive sectors, which outperformed. At the other end of the spectrum, Allianz Global Small Cap (-9.9%) lost value as small cap stocks underperformed larger companies.

Within fixed income, the portfolio's bias towards corporate credit proved a headwind in the risk-off environment, as corporate credit (especially sub-investment grade) underperformed. US government bonds, held via the Vanguard US Government Bond Index (+1.9%), was the best performer within the portfolio as the flight to safety caused a decline in general bond yields. The higher quality investment grade credit funds, Wellington Global Credit Plus (+1.2%) and PIMCO Global Investment Grade Credit (+0.6%) also generated positive returns, as they too benefited from the shift in yield curves. Elsewhere, Franklin Templeton Global Total Return (-0.7%), Muzinich Short Duration High Yield (-1.3%) and AXA US Short Duration High Yield (-1.1%) all lost ground as risk assets underperformed safe havens.

In other asset classes, Nedgroup Global Property (-6.1%) fell less than broader global equity markets, as REITS were partially assisted by falling government bond yields. UK commercial property exposure was more mixed, with the more conventional commercial property holding, F&C Commercial Property Trust (-7.5%), retrenching on Brexit concerns, whilst the less cyclical UK care home exposures, Impact Healthcare (+0.0%) and Target Healthcare (+0.0%), were both flat. Infrastructure also saw some divergence in performance, with 3i

Infrastructure (+0.6%) and Greencoat Renewables (+0.5%) both higher, whilst Greencoat UK Wind (-2.3%) and John Laing Environmental Assets (-0.5%) were marginally down. Finally, the two asset-backed finance investments also succumbed to market pressures, with SQN Asset Finance Income Fund C-Shares returning -2.2% and GCP Asset Backed Income -0.5%.

In terms of portfolio activity, there were no material strategy changes made over the month.
