DRIVERS OF FIRST QUARTER 2019 PERFORMANCE

The portfolio had a really strong quarter, rising +7.0% (US$ C Class), supported by a more accommodative central bank outlook and declining concerns about a global trade war. Looking beneath the surface, the aggregate of the underlying global equity exposures outperformed market averages. The portfolio was helped by good underlying stock selection from the active equity managers as the bias toward more defensive sectors and regional tilt to emerging market stocks underperformed over the quarter. Within fixed income, the portfolio's bias towards corporate credit proved a tailwind in the risk-on environment, as corporate credit, both investment grade (PIMCO Global Investment Grade Credit +4.9%) and sub-investment grade (AXA US Short Duration High Yield +4.1%), outperformed government bonds (Vanguard US Government Bond Index +2.1%). Franklin Templeton Global Total Return (+1.6%) lagged as its exposure to emerging market bonds and currencies underperformed over the period. In other areas, global REITS were positively impacted by the fall in government bond yields and rose more than global equities - Nedgroup Global Property (+15.6%) was the best performing fund in the portfolio over the period. Whilst our more traditional UK commercial property holding was held back by concerns around Brexit, the exposure to UK care homes, which by its very nature is less cyclical, performed much better, with Target Healthcare (+8.4%) and Impact Healthcare (+4.3%) managing to post positive returns. Elsewhere, the portfolio's investment in infrastructure was extremely helpful, lifted by a mix of good results and investors searching for yield (Greencoat UK Wind +11.3%, John Laing Environmental Assets +7.2%, 3i Infrastructure +7.0%). Finally, the portfolio's allocation to asset-backed lending was also positive, with SQN Asset Finance Income Fund C-Shares (+4.8%) and GCP Asset Backed Income (+4.3%) generating solid returns over the period.

SUMMARY OF RECENT CHANGES

We made several changes to the portfolio. Firstly, we participated in capital raises by Greencoat UK Wind and Greencoat Renewables to help finance the purchase of additional wind farms. The issues were oversubscribed, showcasing the strength and appetite for these types of investments. Secondly, we established a new position in The Renewables Infrastructure Group (TRIG) via a capital raise. TRIG invests in renewables, with a particular focus on onshore wind and solar. Like our other investments in this area, we believe that TRIG will provide investors with a high level of reliable income, inflation protection, and low risk of any material loss of capital. Thirdly, we sold TOBAM Anti-Benchmark World Equity and invested the proceeds in a new holding called Fundsmith Equity. This fund should provide the portfolio with some downside protection as it looks to hold high quality business with competitive advantages that are difficult to replicate. Fourthly, we decided to consolidate the portfolio's global investment grade exposure by selling Wellington Global Credit Plus and investing the proceeds into PIMCO Global Investment Grade Credit. Finally, we took the decision to sell the Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index Fund and concentrate our emerging market equity exposure within the active equity fund TT Emerging Market Equity.

In terms of other changes, in January, we marginally increased sterling exposure as, in our view, the risk of a Hard Brexit had declined. There are still a number of possible outcomes, but one we regard as very unlikely is a cliff-edge Hard Brexit, even if the uncertainty seems likely to continue for a while yet.

March 2019

INFORMATION SHEET

HOUSE VIEW

- Global real GDP will moderate to somewhere in the range of 2.5 to 3.0% in 2019.
- Advanced economy core inflation will remain around current levels.
- Interest rates in the developed world will remain quite low (no change for the ECB or BOJ), with very modest (if any) increases by the Federal Reserve. Divergence will remain a theme as the ECB, BOE and BOJ maintain ultra-loose / negative real interest rate policies, which should be quite supportive of the US dollar.
- Having been very strong in 2018, corporate earnings growth will remain positive but moderate towards about 5% in 2019, which reflects slower economic growth and the fading impact of US tax cuts & fiscal spending stimulus.
- Equities will outperform bonds due to earnings growth and better relative valuations. The equity/bond risk premium continues to favour equities.
- Better value non-US equity markets will outperform the US (at least in hedged to US dollar terms).
- Within fixed income, corporate debt will outperform government debt; shorter dated bonds should do better than longer dated maturities.
- A hard Brexit will be avoided, with the most likely outcomes being a soft Brexit or no Brexit at all (possibly after a delay).
- US-China trade tensions will remain an uncertainty, although the issue should be contained to a bilateral scuffle rather than anything more global.
- Investor returns will probably be modest going forward, whilst volatility seems set to remain in check over the coming quarters.
